Row over release of migrant stowaways

A ROW has broken out between police and immigration officers over who is to blame for the "disappearance" of nine Afghan stowaways.

The illegal immigrants, discovered hiding in a truck at Fordham haulage firm Turners, were told to make their own way to an immigration centre in Croydon as police did not have enough staff to take them into custody.

The Border and Immigration Agency has denied claims from Cambridgeshire police that it gave permission for the stowaways to go free.

BY John Morgan
Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

Police are standing by the version of events they gave to Jim Paice, MP for Cambridgeshire South East, saying they agreed with immigration officers the men should be directed to Croydon.

The Border and Immigration Agency (BIA) told the Weekly News it had advised police to arrest the illegal immigrants and hold them in custody until immigration officers arrived.

A spokesman said: "It is not true that the agency advised the police to tell the illegal immigrants to make their own way to Croydon.

"We respond as a matter of priority whenever notified by the police that they have arrested illegal immigrants found in lorries.

"In the East Midlands and East of England a new fast-track procedure was recently introduced where all adult males arrested by the police at 'lorry drops' are taken into immigration detention where they are fingerprinted and dealt with according to BIA procedures and guidelines."

Mr Paice said: "I cannot see why the police would have made up their initial response to me if it is not true. I side entirely with the police – they did what they were instructed to do.

"The credibility of the Border and Immigration Authority and the Home Office is shot to pieces.

"Unless they can prove what they are saying – which they won't be able to – we have to accept what the police are saying."

Mr Paice said police forces across the country followed accepted rules set by the immigration authority in such cases, adding: "The message goes out loud and clear, 'once you're in, chaps, you're free'."

David Munns, company secretary for Turners, said: "A foreign vehicle bringing produce to our processing plant arrived in the yard.

Children travel back in time to ancient Egypt

PRIMARY school children dressed like ancient Egyptians for a special day to learn about the history of the pyramids and pharaohs.

Youngsters from Kingfisher class at Swaffham Bulbeck Church of England Primary School took part in the special day arranged by the History Off the Page organisation.

The 25 pupils in Years 3 and 4 were able to experience Egyptian crafts and take part in the Festival of the Nile.

"They had a lovely time," said a school spokeswoman.

Dubai International's Liverpool deal in doubt

IN THE latest twist in the financial struggle for control of Liverpool FC, one of the club's American owners has announced that he will block a deal with Dubai International Capital (DIC).

Negotiators for DIC, the investment arm of the emirate ruled by Newmarket racehorse owner Sheikh Mohammed, had sounded positive that the deal was going ahead.

Former Cambridge businesswoman Amanda Staveley, of PCP Capital Partners, has been leading talks on behalf of DIC.

She told a national newspaper that agreement in principle had been reached with George Gillett, one of Liverpool's two American owners, to buy a 49 per cent share in the club for £170 million on Friday.

But Tom Hicks, the club's other US owner, has said he is halting negotiations on a partnership with DIC and indicated he would veto a deal between DIC and Mr Gillett.

It was reported that Ms Staveley, who formerly headed the Q.ton Forum on Cambridge Science Park, could be in line for a seat on the Liverpool board if the deal went ahead.

It is understood that DIC remain determined to push ahead with the deal.

No one from the company was available for comment.

School musicians take stage at Maltings

PUPILS from a Newmarket school have taken part in a prestigious concert for the first time.

The youngsters from All Saints Primary School played the cornet and sang at Snape Maltings as part of the week-long Festival of School Music, part of the Wider Opportunities programme.

The 19 children from Years 3 and 4 have been having weekly lessons from tutor Mike Tatt as well as regular lessons with the school's music teacher, Freda Mitchell.

Jane Eccleston, the head teacher, said: "I believe we were the only school from Newmarket, and one of only a few from the western area of Suffolk, to take part.

"It was a wonderful experience for the children. It was good for their broader education and social development to take part in a proper concert like that."

Five other schools performed on the night that All Saints took part.

Land 'should be kept in use for racing industry'

RESIDENTS opposing plans to build a luxury retirement complex packed the public gallery at council offices where a public inquiry into the scheme was being staged.

The inquiry, expected to last up to four days, is hearing an appeal by English Courtyard Developments against the refusal of planning permission for 36 retirement flats to be built on paddock land at Newmarket.

People living at Balaton Place, next to the paddock off Snailwell Road, have objected to the scheme and Forest Heath District Council has turned down the application.

Planning inspector Terry Phillimore is hearing evidence

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

at the inquiry which is being staged at the council's headquarters in Mildenhall.

The council turned down the Surrey-based company's plans last year on the grounds that it broke the policy aimed at protecting Newmarket's horseracing industry.

New applications for planning permission, considered in January, were also turned down by the council's planning committee – even though council officials said the scheme was now acceptable after new information indicated that the paddock had not been directly used by the racing industry for more than 50 years.

The appeals being considered only relate to the earlier applications for planning permission and conservation area consent which were turned down by the district council in August last year.

The council and representatives of the residents have said that there is demand for paddock land in Newmarket. Racehorse trainer James Fanshawe, whose stables are next to the site, has said he would use it for his horses.

John Pugh-Smith, barrister for the developers, said the owners of the land, the Animal Health Trust, needed to sell the land to continue its work which included research and treatment of disorders affecting racehorses.

He said that Balaton Place had been built on another piece of land owned by the Trust about eight years ago.

"We say the appeal site is not suitable in its own right to be used as a racehorse training establishment," he said.

"Jockey Club Estates and the Newmarket Trainers' Association have said there is no requirement for this land to remain undeveloped."

Richard Ground, for the council, said Newmarket's unique position as the national and international "capital of horseracing" should be defended. There is no evidence that this site has been marketed for use in the horseracing industry," he said.

The inquiry is continuing.

Police appeal after robbers raid building society

POLICE hunting robbers who attacked security guards as they delivered cash to a building society have appealed for help from hotel staff and guest house owners.

Detectives think the four-man gang may have stayed in the Mildenhall area at the weekend before carrying out the raid at the town's Nationwide Building Society branch on Monday night.

A Suffolk Police spokeswoman said: "We have had a really good response to witness appeals so far, but we would particularly like to hear from hotels or guest houses if they may have had some suspicious visitors."

The thieves, wearing balaclavas and camouflage clothing got away with "a large quantity" of cash in three security boxes after the threatening the guards.

Windows were smashed at the Market Place building society and one of the guards was threatened with what is thought to have been a Taser-style stun gun.

The thieves sped off in a silver-coloured Vauxhall Omega and were seen heading in the direction of the A11 road.

Police are checking CCTV camera footage for clues.

Anyone with information about the raid, which happened at about 8pm on Monday, should call Mildenhall CID (01473) 613500.

Graves attacked in night of 'shameful' vandalism

BY Raymond Brown

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

VANDALS desecrated a row of graves in a shameful night of mayhem.

Residents of Swaffham Bulbeck were shocked to discover the violation in the graveyard.

They arrived at the cemetery to mourn loved ones – but were sickened on finding seven headstones had been pushed over.

One of the headstones was badly damaged.

Parish councillor Loder Bevington, of High Street, was saddened by the destruction.

He said: "It was awful – an absolutely shameful act. Seven of the gravestones had been pushed over. One stone had been pushed over recently but this was just too much. People are very upset. They are pretty fed up.

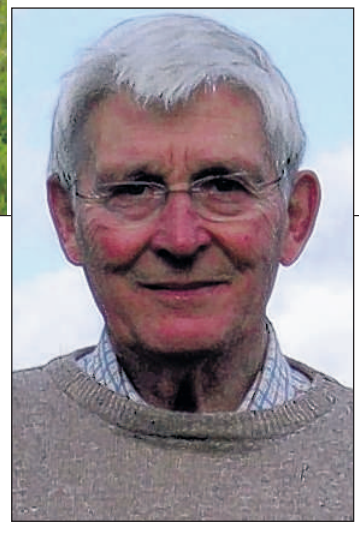
"It has spoiled the whole community. It's just a rotten way to go on. This damage is the latest and most serious of recent attacks on the cemetery.

"The police have been informed and are seeking witnesses."

One relative, who did not wish to be named, said: "I don't know how people could stoop so low to do such a terrible thing.

"It is sad this has happened in such a lovely, quiet village. It is very sad and distressing. Not only that, the damage has to be paid for by the families."

A police spokeswoman said: "All criminal damage is upsetting, but more so when it involves damage to gravestones, which is particularly emotive for the families involved."



■ SHAMEFUL . . . damage caused to gravestones in the Swaffham Bulbeck cemetery and, inset, Loder Bevington.

Relatives of loved ones whose headstones were targeted in the attack are being traced by the parish council.

This latest defilement of memorials comes after scrap metal thieves stole 150 bronze plaques from Cambridge Crematorium last month.

Anyone with any information should contact police on 0845 456 4564 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

Illegal migrants were set free

■ From Page 1

"There was a knocking sound from a pallet below the lorry and when we checked, the company's security staff found nine Afghans hiding away. They wanted to get out. Our staff checked they did not have weapons, gave them a cup of tea and something to eat.

"We rang the police, and two officers turned up and said we should direct them to the Croydon immigration centre to be processed.

"But then four or five of them said they wanted to go to Birmingham, produced some pounds sterling and euros, and asked to be sent to Ely station.

"I very much doubt if any of them went to Croydon.

"The police said they didn't have the staff to deal with them, but it seems unbelievable that this could happen."

The stowaways were found on Tuesday, February 5 by the Spanish driver of the lorry. Staff from Turners took five of them to Ely railway station and the other four asylum-seekers vanished.

A spokesman for Cambridgeshire police said the force followed guidelines from the Immigration Service and Home Office.

He added: "The immigration service at St Ives was contacted and a decision was made to direct the men to the immigration facility at Croydon, an accepted practice."

Museum to open again

BURWELL Museum will reopen this year with an Easter Egg Hunt.

The museum, in Mill Close, Burwell, is run by volunteers and is open on Sundays, Bank Holiday Mondays and Thursdays.

It will reopen this year on Easter Sunday and Easter Monday from 2pm.

An Easter Egg hunt will be held on both days at a charge of 50p per child on top of normal £1 child admission charge.

The adult admission charge is £3.

Woman, 24, found dead

AN inquest has opened into the death of a woman whose body was found in a flat in Newmarket.

The woman was named as Kli-Rose Hiller, 24, who lived in Old Station Road, Newmarket.

Her body was discovered on Monday, March 3, when police were called to the flat. She is believed to have been found hanged.

An inquest into her death has been formally opened by Dr Peter Dean, the Suffolk coroner. He adjourned the hearing to a later date after full reports have been completed.

Speed dating country-style

SINGLE people hoping to find the man, or woman, of their dreams can take part in a speed dating session due to be staged in the racehorse sales ring at Newmarket.

The Countryside Alliance is teaming up with online friendship site Muddy Matches to run the event in the Tattersalls auction ring.

Instead of horses on parade, the ring will be set up with tables and chairs for couples to chat for up to four minutes before moving on.

After the event they will hear whether they have made any matches and be given contact details.

Lucy Reeves, of Muddy Matches, said: "It is a tried and tested formula and a really fun way to meet some new people.

"Sometimes people worry that they will not have enough to say to some of their 'dates' but what makes this event so great is that, being specifically aimed at country-minded people, everyone attending will automatically have something in common."

Alice Barnard, Eastern regional director of the Countryside Alliance, said: "We are delighted to be working with Muddy Matches on this joint venture, and look forward to bringing together like-minded people for what promises to be a very entertaining evening."

The evening will take place from 7.30pm on Friday, April 25. Tickets cost £20 and must be bought in advance from www.muddymatches.co.uk /events

Piggott adds to museum display

In our weekly column, reporter JOHN GOODE takes a look behind the racing scene to bring you news from in and around the stables.

■ SPECIAL EXHIBITION . . . assistant curator Alan Grundy with the saddle Lester Piggott used for the Triple Crown on Nijinsky in 1970. Picture: Richard Patterson 471251.

RACING legend Lester Piggott will be the subject of a special exhibition at Newmarket's National Horseracing Museum this year.

Previously unseen memorabilia from the jockey's own collection will be displayed at the High Street museum.

Much of the material was gathered together last year for a special display at the racecourse when a tribute race day was held commemorating 50 years since his 2000 Guineas win on Crepello.

Graham Snelling, museum curator and acting director, said: "It seemed a shame that all the work that had gone into the display at the racecourse was only seen on one day, so we decided to use the material in the museum this year."

Piggott, 72, overcame two heart scares last year – one of which led to the postponement of his special race day. He is now said to be looking forward to the exhibition which will be staged throughout this year's season at the museum between March 18 and November 2.

He remains a household name rated alongside other top sportsmen such as Muhammad Ali, Pele and Stirling Moss.

He was just 12 years old when he rode his first winner and went on to record more than 5,300 race wins across the world.

Police take action to stop illegal parking

BY John Goode
Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

A CAMPAIGN to tackle parking problems in a village has been launched by a police neighbourhood team.

Iceni Safer Neighbourhood Team, which covers Red Lodge and other villages in the Newmarket and Mildenhall areas, has received numerous complaints about illegal and inconsiderate parking.

Police Community Support Officer Tim Hartup said: "A particular problem has been brought to our attention in Red Lodge, around vehicles parking on and around the junction of Bennett Road and Rosemary Close.

"A community engagement event was held, and the majority of those spoken to were concerned about both the increased traffic due to the Kings Warren development and the resulting increase in visits to the post office, and also of persistent parking directly on the Bennett Road/Rosemary Close junction. This raises concerns of safety and restricted access for residents and visitors to Rosemary Close.

"We have produced a poster, highlighting the dangers of parking close to junctions, and these are being displayed at local shops and community locations. We hope that by educating people we will reduce parking problems; however, we will also be out on patrol enforcing the law at key times, and any vehicles considered to be causing an unnecessary obstruction and therefore dangerously parked will be liable to receive a £30 fixed penalty notice.

"Although limited, there are a number of parking spaces allocated to customers of the post office and general stores and these should always be used when available."

Spray paint vandals strike

PAINT-SPRAYING vandals have damaged cars and a house.

The incidents happened in Lakenheath.

Letters were sprayed on the offside panel of car parked in the High Street between Saturday, March 1 and Monday, March 3. Two other vehicles were sprayed between Friday, March 7 and Monday, March 10. One was in High Street and the other was in Back Street. Paint was also sprayed on the front door and a wall of a house in Mill Road.

A police spokesman condemned the incidents as "mindless vandalism". Anyone with information should call Mildenhall Police (01284) 774100.

'Wasteful top managers fail to meet trust's budget target'

Sir, I have read with great interest articles in the local press concerning the inability of the East of England Ambulance NHS Trust to meet its targets and financial commitments this year.

It is my understanding that the trust is likely to be some £1.8 million overspent at the end of this current financial year and it is also likely that it will not meet Government targets on response times.

Readers may find it interesting to know that last Monday the newly appointed chief executive, who was interim chief executive since last July, took it upon himself to take 50 key operational staff to the Rowley Mile Racecourse for the day for a "conference". At what cost to the ratepayers of this region I wonder! Wouldn't those 50 key operational personnel have been better appointed out in the region responding?

Also bearing in mind that the trust has a large, very luxurious under-utilised office building in Bury St Edmunds, housing directors and a skeleton staff and a perfectly adequate venue in Colchester, neither of which would have cost a penny, couldn't they have met there?

Recently I believe there has been a complete blanket ban on the cleaning of vehicles in the region and a ban on overtime for operational staff. I understand staff are having to ask permission to order paper and pens and yet the chief executive can waste money in this way. Staff morale must be at an all time low. Is it any wonder?

Please don't misunderstand me, in December 2007 I was diagnosed with breast cancer and have received the best treatment I could have ever wished for from consultants, doctors, nurses, radiologists, etc, I have nothing but praise for these hard-working, dedicated staff.

However, I cannot hold back my anger any longer at the ridiculous amount of money wasted by and on incompetent "top management" in these organisations.

When is this Government going to wake up to the fact the the "top management" are not only incapable of meeting Government targets but cannot even manage a budget.

Recently, I believe the trust has brought in a consultant at £90,000 per annum to try to sort out the finances! This is when there is a trust board of directors and executive directors. Wasn't the merger of the trusts into one Eastern Region supposed to save money?

Let's take this issue to the top

Sir, It was good to see the letter from county councillor Colin Noble (School change – focus on how, Weekly News, March 6).

The future of our children's education with the School Organisation Review is still of great concern to myself and many parents, teachers, heads, governors, grandparents and councillors of Newmarket and the surrounding areas.

We all want to hear about the action taking place to ensure the continued high standards of education that our children are used to.

If the county council wants to change our education system it needs to deliver a quality service through careful management of this immense project that it is undertaking. Where are the damage limitation strategies? How are our teachers going to be convinced to stay? How will the building of new schools be managed to avoid portable buildings?

When businesses are re-organised they have their buildings built and when they have been inspected and approved they move from the old to the new. Is this possible for when our children's schools are changed?

This is a bigger project than the leisure centre and affects children's futures, we need to see the plans on how this is going to be managed and followed through to the end with as little disruption as is possible. Regular progress updates to the public through the local paper would be very helpful.

Let's take this to Downing Street to see if they can help. Send letters about this issue to me and I will send them on to Downing Street, copy to the county council and I can take them to the next school forum. Let's all share our views as they all count.

End these racist slurs, school told

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

A SCHOOL has been told to take action to stop racist comments by students following an influx of children from Eastern Europe.

Inspectors from Ofsted, the Office for Standards in Education, called for improvements in behaviour and measures to eliminate racist comments by a minority of students at Mildenhall College of Technology.

The school has about 25 students from Eastern Europe and a handful from Asia on its total roll of 960.

Head teacher Terry Lewis said some pupils from Eastern Europe, who joined the school last year, told inspectors they had been "teased" by other pupils because English was not their first language.

"We take it as a serious issue because numbers are likely to increase. We want to play a part in educating the community into being more welcoming, and we have raised it with other schools," he said.

■ RAISING ISSUE . . . head teacher Terry Lewis.

The inspectors said the number of racist comments had "reduced markedly," but had not been entirely eliminated.

Overall the school was given a "good" rating by the inspectors.

Mr Lewis said: "We were pleased to be shown as 'good' overall and particularly pleased that they acknowledged our improvement in achievement."

The report also called for improvements in quality of teaching to make some lessons more enjoyable. The inspectors also called for better communication with parents and pupils.

The report said the school was effective in limiting any disruptive behaviour and the number of pupil exclusions was falling.

The inspection report said: "The school's effectiveness is good and ensures that pupils make good progress in their work."

It praised the curriculum with its wide range of vocational courses as well as its "very effective" method of tracking pupils' progress to help those who are falling behind.

It also praised the school's efforts in teaching literacy and numeracy to pupils who were not making sufficient progress.

The report said "a significant number" of parents were critical of behaviour at the school, although the inspectors gave a "satisfactory" rating for behaviour and said bullying was rare and dealt with quickly and effectively.

Seat belt crackdown

MORE than 250 motorists were given fixed penalty notices for not wearing seat belts as part of a crackdown by Suffolk Police.

The week-long campaign, at the end of February, was part of the European seat belt enforcement campaign.

The £30 on-the-spot fines were issued across the county. During 2007 police in Suffolk issued 4,446 penalty notices for failure to wear a seat belt.

Cases which go to court can result in fines of up to £500.

Bid to allow couples to get hitched at Jockey Club

COUPLES will be able to tie the knot in the historic surroundings of Newmarket's Jockey Club if council officials grant a licence.

The club dates from 1752 when the coffee room, the oldest part of the building, was built for the horse-owning gentry to meet.

The building was later expanded to its current size in the town's High Street.

Although it is no longer used for disciplinary hearings, the stewards' room where jockeys had to stand "on the carpet," is preserved.

The building, previously a strictly men-only members' club, is used for meetings and corporate functions on days when there are no race meetings or horse sales in the town.

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

The application for a licence to hold marriages and civil partnership ceremonies is the latest move to maximise the use of the building where rooms are lined with valuable paintings, trophies and other memorabilia.

Allan Clarke, general manager of the Jockey Club Rooms, said: "We are still a members' club during race meetings and the sales in the town. But that is only about 40 days a year and now we are in 2008 it has been realised that we need to create more corporate and commercial use for the building."

Wedding receptions have previously been held at the Jockey Club. But the grant of a licence will enable the whole wedding day to be staged there.

He said there had been inquiries from couples about getting married in the unique surroundings.

"It's just a logical progression to have a licence for weddings," said Mr Clarke.

Another building linked with Newmarket's horseracing heritage, Palace House, has already got a licence to hold weddings and civil partnerships.

Palace House, part of King Charles II's home in Newmarket, is owned by Forest Heath District Council and proved popular with couples. Last year around 35 weddings were held there.

The Racecourse is also licensed as a wedding venue and last year had two ceremonies and five receptions staged there.

Some of the town's hotels are also licensed for weddings.

The application by the Jockey Club for a licence from Suffolk County Council has coincided with an announcement that Bury St Edmunds register office will close in April of next year, although efforts are being made to establish a new register office there.

Newmarket's register office, formerly in Park Lane, closed around 20 years ago.

Comments on the Jockey Club's application have to be received by the county council by March 27.

New county chief's pay beats PM's

SUFFOLK County Council's new chief executive has been named as the boss of the soon-to-be abolished Bedfordshire County Council.

Her pay packet will be more than £30,000 above the £189,000 salary of Prime Minister Gordon Brown, and 50 per cent more than that of her predecessor, Mike More.

He joins London's Westminster City Council in April. The appointment of his successor will be formally confirmed at a council meeting on March 27.

Mrs Hill, who has over 20 years' experience of local government, grew up on the north Essex- Suffolk border and began her career in Thurrock.

She has been Bedfordshire's chief executive since 2004 and has held a number of senior posts in other councils including chief executive of Colchester Borough Council – where her high salary was also criticised – deputy chief executive of North Herts District Council and assistant chief executive of Cambridge City Council.

Boy's street attack over cigarettes

A BOY aged about 12 punched a 40-year-old man after asking him to buy cigarettes.

The incident happened near a newsagent's in St Mary's Square, Newmarket, when the boy asked the man for a cigarette.

The man said he did not smoke and did not have any. But the boy hit him and then gave him £5 and demanded that he went into the shop to buy him a packet of cigarettes.

When the man refused, he was punched again. The victim did not suffer serious injury as a result of the assaults.

The boy, described as thin with dark-brown mid-length scruffy hair, was wearing a white tracksuit top, blue tracksuit bottoms and white training shoes.

Anyone with information about the incident, which happened between 3.50pm and 4pm on Saturday, should call Pc Neil Van Holland at Newmarket Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Man stalked girls

POLICE want to trace a man who accosted two girls in a park and followed them through nearby streets.

The girls, aged 10 and 12, were in Newmarket's Memorial Hall Gardens off the High Street when they were approached by the man.

They walked off when the man tried to speak to them and he followed them.

The man was described as white, aged about 35 and of large build. He was about 5ft 10in tall with curly black hair. He was wearing a green vest top, blue tracksuit bottoms and a large coat.

Anyone with information about the incident, which happened at around 4pm on Saturday, should call Pc Neil Van Holland at Newmarket Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Crucial safety messages keep children from harm

HUNDREDS of pupils from schools across the Forest Heath district are taking part in the annual Crucial Crew week.

The event, organised by the Forest Heath Crime Prevention Panel, stages a range of scenarios to help children deal with emergencies and stay safe.

Pupils from middle schools in Newmarket, Mildenhall and Brandon as well as Fairstead House School in Newmarket and pupils from an American school on one of the nearby bases are taking part during the week.

The Police and Fire Service as well as the Forestry Commission are among the organisations taking part, together with a number of volunteers.

The event is being held at Mildenhall Stadium, which allows its facilities to be used free of charge, and is sponsored by the former Mildenhall Charity Shop.

Vets treat one-legged chicken

Specialists at the Animal Health Trust, near Newmarket, were consulted by the owners of Eve.

The bird had a leg amputated 18 months ago when a tumour was detected. Now her remaining leg has been hit by the cancer and her owners, from Worcestershire, sought help from the trust.

The trust has one of the largest veterinary oncology units in Europe.

Sue Murphy, who heads the unit, said: "Although our clinics generally treat dogs, cats and horses, we are always willing to accept referrals of other species that can benefit from our specialist expertise and facilities."

Eve's owners, Elaine and Chris Denney, from Hatfield Norton, Worcestershire, said she had suffered no ill effects after losing the leg and had continued to lay eggs.

During Eve's visit to the AHT, Mrs Murphy discussed possible treatment for the latest tumour, which had been diagnosed as a squamous cell carcinoma – a form of skin cancer.

Mrs Murphy recommended surgery and local radiation to treat the cancer and save her leg. A similar treatment regimen has an almost 100 per cent success rate in cats.

Gardens for wildlife day

A FENLAND nature reserve is holding a special event to show householders how to attract more wildlife.

The Royal Society for the Protection of Birds is staging a "Homes for Wildlife" event at its Lakenheath Fen reserve on Sunday, March 16, between 11.30am and 1.30pm.

Visitors will be told which plants are good for butterflies, birds and bees.

They will also be shown how to make nestboxes.

Kirsty Nutt, RSPB information officer at Lakenheath Fen said: "This is a fantastic way for people to find out about the small things we can all do to make our homes a better place for wildlife.

"The combined area of gardens in the UK is greater than that of nature reserves. So conservation really does need to start at home."

Groups join forces for P.O. battle

BY Chris Elliott

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

COUNCIL bosses, business leaders and community groups are fighting post office closures in Cambridgeshire.

They have united to create a campaigning organisation to ensure that people in rural areas are not left without a service they need. The campaign body is called the Cambridgeshire and Peterborough Post Office Network Change Group and it will be having urgent talks with the Post Office.

It has been revealed that between 20 and 30 post offices could be shut down this autumn. Their names and locations will be announced by Post Office Ltd on July 8.

The organisation formed to fight the closures is made up of Cambridgeshire County Council, the county's five district councils, Peterborough City Council, postal services watchdog Postwatch East, and representatives from the business sector. Also involved is Cambridgeshire ACRE, the charity working to ensure rural communities have adequate services.

Sir Peter Brown, the county council's cabinet member for communities, said the new body wanted to ensure decisions on the closure of post offices took account of areas of deprivation and growth, new transport and road schemes, and the needs of local communities.

He said decisions must be based on "the Government's minimum access criteria to maintain a national network of post offices, and protect vulnerable people in deprived urban, rural and remote areas."

■ POSTAL FIGHT. . . Sir Peter Brown is campaigning to retain a service which is vital to the rural communities.

"There are a number of areas within Cambridgeshire which are deprived and we want to ensure these areas are protected, and have their current level of service maintained," he said.

"It is also important that we ensure Post Office Ltd is made aware of the details of future major house building projects.

"They also need to know about the construction of any new communities such as Northstowe, and they need to take into account the future service needs of new or expanding communities."

Post Office chiefs agreed to meet a delegation led by Sir Peter.

At the meeting, which was due to be held on Tuesday, he was to hand over a detailed dossier of information on the needs of communities in Cambridgeshire, as well as an outline of the issues the group wants to be taken into account when closures are being considered.

The Government has announced that 2,500 post offices must close across the country in a bid to stem plunging profits.

True costs of congestion to be examined

THE cost of congestion on the region's roads is to be investigated in a major new study.

The East of England Development Agency (EEDA) has commissioned the research, to be carried out by planning experts Steer Davies Gleave.

The agency hopes it will act as a spur to investment in the road and rail network.

Andy Summers, EEDA's senior transport project manager, said: "We want to establish the economic costs of congestion on the region's road and rail networks, identify priorities for the region, and recommend transport solutions.

"The study will also lay out the productivity benefits of additional investment in the transport system.

"The results, when published in the summer, will be used to inform the regional economic strategy and other regional work so EEDA and its partners in the East of England can manage the ambitious growth planned.

"It is a common perception that congestion and overcrowding on the transport network is stifling productivity in the East of England and the wider UK economy. However, until now we have not had the hard evidence to fully work out the economic costs. Our study will define how transport can unlock economic growth by putting a figure on how much congestion is costing. It will also demonstrate the economic benefits of investment in the regional transport system."

Leo Eyles, director of the project for Steer Davies Gleave, said the region is planning an extra half a million new homes and 450,000 jobs in the next 20 years. "We shall consider what role transport investment can play in this growing level of activity."

Spring clean for public spaces has 'real impact'

ABANDONED fridges, sofas and bags of rubbish were removed from public spaces in Soham in a blitz on flytipping.

Volunteers, council staff and firefighters tidied up the streets on the town's annual environmental action day organised by Julie Sandbrook, community fire safety office for East Cambridgeshire.

Police ticketed untaxed and illegally parked cars, highways workers filled potholes, nine offenders cleaned up graffiti, and park officers and street cleaners tidied up the parks and gardens.

Ms Sandbrook, whose firefighters offered free home fire safety checks, said: "The day made a real impact."

She said it would be followed up with more work.

Ukraine opera

CAMBRIDGE'S Corn Exchange will see a lavish production of the opera La Traviata tomorrow.

The production comes from the Ukrainian National Opera of Odessa which celebrates its 120th anniversary this year and received a standing ovation at the Royal Albert Hall on its debut tour of the UK with the production in 2002.

The show starts at 7.30pm and tickets are £15-£31.50. To book call (01223) 357851.

Young voices

A YOUTH choir which will represent Britain in a top international competition this summer is performing at Cambridge's West Road Concert Hall on Sunday.

The 100-strong choir Cantate, which features six youngsters from Cambridgeshire, will be representing Great Britain in the biennial choir Olympics in Austria this year.

The concert will feature spirituals, gospel numbers and English sacred music and starts at 7pm.

Football folk

TRADITIONAL trio Isambarde play the Cambridge Folk Club tomorrow.

The group plays oboe, guitar and fiddle and has recorded two CDs Brunel's Kingdom and Barnstorming.

Support comes from Barron Brady.

In a change to the usual venue, the gig will be at Cambridge City Football Club's Legends Bar on Milton Road. Tickets are £7-£9.

Shivers' single to have raucous launch

ONE of Cambridge's most promising bands, The Shivers, will be launching their news single at The Graduate tomorrow.

The band have been one of the biggest crowd pullers on the local music scene and take inspiration from blues, rock and country sources like The Rolling Stones, Creedence Clearwater Revival and Johnny Cash.

The new single Merry Go Round is one of their most upbeat efforts to date and they've promised a "raucous" launch party to match it.

"We've got a real rag-tag bag of influences and on this record we think we have created our most seamless blend yet," says slide guitarist and ukulele player Gaz.

"This is pretty much a dry-run for the next album, so watch out."

The single is released on limited edition seven inch vinyl and on iTunes.

Support at the gig comes from Delta Blues specialist Tom Colborn and lo-fi indie pop troupe Magoo.

Childhood dream is a giant act to follow

By Nik Shelton

TWO friends will realise a childhood dream this week when their opera David and Goliath echoes around Queens' College Chapel.

Cambridge composer Samuel Hogarth, who wrote the new work with librettist Guy Perry, said: "When we were very young, about 9 or 10, we started thinking about the idea. We wanted to do it as a musical, I don't know how much we had thought it through.

"I think I had gone to see a musical for the first time and I thought it was cool so being an objectionable and precocious kid I thought, 'I can do that!'.

"We came up with about two numbers and got no further. I had completely forgotten about it and then when I got this commission we remembered it again."

That commission came from the New Chamber Opera company based in Oxford where Sam studied music. Since 2006 he has been the college musician at Queens', which has supported him in the difficult task of getting the production off the ground.

"There are plenty of people writing operas and it's never died as an art but these things are just incredibly expensive to stage,"

■ GIANT ACT . . . David prepares to meet Goliath. CP.

says Sam. "It's very hard to do unless you have somebody backing you which we are very lucky to have with Queens'."

The two friends behind the piece bring different aspects to the work. Sam's experiences include writing for the National Youth Orchestra Sinfonietta, premiers at the Royal Academy of Music and contributing two jazz piano pieces to the recent Angelina Jolie film A Mighty Heart. Guy is completing a doctorate in history and admits to a fascination with religion, ancient myths and psychology.

"We talked about it a lot and then there was a lot of email tennis," says Sam on their writing process.

"We worked out a rough outline and argued a bit about what should go in what scene and how we would create the drama.

"We probably spent about two or three months on that stage and then he started sending me a scene at a time and I would say, 'This won't work to music' or 'I need some more text here' until we got there."

The music for the piece has been inspired by the composers Britten and Tippett and looks at the biblical tale of David and Goliath from a new angle.

"What it does is take a critical look at the story, so instead of David being a hero and Goliath being a big evil giant the idea is Goliath is a myth and David is in fact quite a nasty slippery character who uses that myth to manoeuvre himself into a position of power.

"The plot is about the relationship between David and King Saul who is possessed by evil spirits. David comes to Saul and plays his harp to calm him down and he sees him as a way of getting power."

■ David and Goliath is at Queens' College Chapel from tonight to Sunday, March 16, at 7.30pm. Tickets £6-£12.

NCTJ
TRAIN AS A JOURNALIST

Journalism is often seen as glamorous and exciting but, as with any occupation, success comes only after much hard work and routine activity. However, each working day as a journalist is different and the training you receive will give you the flexibility to cover a wide range of news stories and features.

Journalism draws on all the knowledge and skills you have acquired and can give you a tremendous sense of achievement. If you've got what it takes, journalism could be the career for you!

SO WHERE DO I START?

The NCTJ is the principal provider of journalism qualifications and training and offers a wide variety of training and learning options to suit everyone.

NCTJ qualifications are what editors look for when they are recruiting trainee journalists and these can be gained through full-time, part-time, distance learning or on-the-job training courses. We also offer press photography and photo-journalism training.

Charming village cottage

YOUR MOVE Lattimores are delighted to offer this extended three bedroom semi detached cottage situated within the picturesque village of Moulton.

The property retains many original features including feature fire place and wood burning stove.

There is a small open plan garden to the front with a few shrubs and borders. To the rear is a good size mature garden laid mainly to lawn with trees, shrubs and borders. There is a rear access to a garage which is in need of some repair and a driveway beyond that.

The property benefits from a two storey extension to the rear giving a nice size kitchen on the ground floor and a third bedroom and bathroom on the first floor. At present the heating is provided by the way of electric panel heaters complimented by an oil fired Aga and wood burning stove. There is a good size family/living room with wood burning stove great for entertaining and a separate sitting room with views over the rolling Suffolk countryside.

In brief the property comprises:- Entrance hall, sitting room, family/living room, kitchen, first floor landing, three double bedrooms, first floor bathroom, good size enclosed garden, garage and separate driveway.

We strongly recommend internal viewing of this cottage to fully appreciate its potential. The property is offered with no upward chain and viewings can be made through the sole agents Your Move Lattimores on 01638 660303.

Branson wants fuel cell network

VIRGIN boss Sir Richard Branson has called on the UK Government to create hydrogen fuel filling stations to help the fight against climate change.

The Virgin chairman also appealed to governments worldwide to build hydrogen garages.

His call came as Virgin announced that it was teaming up with car giant General Motors to offer zero-emissions hydrogen fuel cars as part of Virgin's limo service for first class passengers.

The first of three of these cars will be tested out in Los Angeles and then a further three will be trialled in New York.

Virgin wants to bring the cars to London but there are no hydrogen filling stations in the capital as yet.

Sir Richard said: "Our mission to be the sustainable airline is clear, both on the ground and in the air. Partnerships such as this with General Motors shows that we are pioneering in the aviation industry when it comes to reducing emissions at every stage of our passengers' journey."

Sir Richard went on: "We are calling upon governments world wide, not just the UK and the US, to assist our businesses by building hydrogen filling stations in key cities so that drivers can fill up their cars more easily.

"As a first step, existing filling stations could add renewable energy pumps alongside other fuel pumps."

General Motors planning vice president Dr Larry Burns said that the deal with Virgin represented "a great partnership".

■ LIFECAR . . . a zero-emission car from Morgan.

Meanwhile a new emission-free concept car is to be launched by the Morgan Motor Company, it was revealed this week.

The Morgan LifeCar, which is powered by a hydrogen fuel cell, has been unveiled at the 2008 Geneva International Motor Show.

The aim of the concept car is to "demonstrate that a zero-emission vehicle can also be fun to drive", according to the Worcestershire-based company's website.

"The combination of performance, range and fuel economy will allow a sporting driver of the future to demonstrate a concern for the environment," the website said.

MOTORING

Eco-driving saves you cash

MOTORISTS could save themselves up to £100 each a year by opting for eco-driving, according to the RAC.

Better driving technique and improved journey planning could financially benefit drivers who are currently wasting £2.2 billion in petrol a year, the RAC added.

The waste due to poor journey planning and to driving more than five billion miles each year while lost is the equivalent of 267 Olympic-sized swimming pools, each one filled with fuel.

The RAC said that 60 per cent of drivers were unaware that changing gear when revs were high could reduce petrol consumption and 40 per cent thought that driving under 45mph always saves fuel.

A further nine per cent admitted to checking their tyre pressure less than once a year, with 77 per cent not aware that under-inflated tyres increased petrol consumption.

Also:

- 9 per cent wrongly believed that breaking regularly will reduce fuel consumption
- 14 per cent incorrectly reckoned warming the engine up before moving off reduced petrol used
- 27 per cent were unaware that switching off air conditioning significantly reduced fuel used.

RAC's technical director David Bizley said: "With fuel prices at a record high, adopting eco driving techniques is an easy way for consumers to reduce their fuel consumption to help wallets and the environment.

"We hope that by raising awareness of the simple changes motorists can make to their driving style, they will be able to absorb some of the increasing cost of petrol through their own driving habits."

■ DO YOUR RESEARCH . . . simply planning a journey will save fuel consumption.

Merc power up, fuel use down

MERCEDES-BENZ has launched a number of new models at the Geneva Motor Show this week that feature reductions in fuel consumption and emissions figures but improved performance levels.

Keeping Mercedes' high levels of safety, comfort and refinement, the new coupes and roadsters now also consume up to 10 per cent less fuel than their predecessors.

SL – Top of the new Mercedes list and premiering in Geneva is the SL-Class.

Very much a refinement of the current model, as opposed to a revolutionary change, the new SL isn't just a facelift as it features a number of changes under its skin. More direct steering and a revised chassis makes the new SL a sportier car than its predecessor. The SL350 has a brand new engine, replacing the previus 3.5-litre unit, and both power and torque is improved – power is up to 316bhp while pulling strength is now at 265 lb.ft.

Those figures mean the SL 350 can accelerate from 0-62 mph in 6.2 seconds but the extra power doesn't compromise fuel consumption which stands at 28.5mpg. The flagship SL500 and SL600 models also have had the fuel consumption figures improved.

SLK – Following a comprehensive facelift, the Mercedes-Benz SLK now offers a more engaging drive than ever before.

The clearest changes include a redesigned front and rear end, as well as a modified interior with a new instrument cluster and three-spoke sports steering wheel. The V6 from the SL-Class has also been installed into the new SLK 350, where it develops 305bhp at 6,500rpm – 33bhp more than the six-cylinder unit in the previous SLK 350. Torque has also been increased by 7 lb.ft and is now 266 lb.ft.

Despite the in creased performance potential, fuel consumption of the SLK 350 has been significantly reduced and 30.7mpg can now be achieved on the combined cycle.

■ SL . . . updated looks and chassis.

CLC – The CLC is more of an individual car than the previous small coupe. Instead of a little modification of the C-Class, the CLC is definitely a model in its own right.

The compact body is an excellent example of the current Mercedes design language and hides a number of advanced engineering features.

The lean towards a sports car is clear with some excellent engines and strong styling but the CLC remains a practical car for its size. Load space of up to 1,100 litres is available. The seats will hold you comfortably through the corners while the interior is kitted out with a number of relaxing features for passengers to play with.

The new CLC is available with a choice of four four-cylinder and two six-cylinder engines developing outputs from 120bhp to 271bhp. With its up-to-date turbodiesel engines, the CLC has excellent fuel consumption: the CLC 200 CDI for example is happy with 46.3 to 48.7mpg.

CLS – The four-door CLS Coupé, which pioneered a new automotive segment, has recently had its eye-catching styling fettled to further improve its looks.

Great attention to detail has also been lavished on the updated interior: a newly designed multi-function leather steering wheel is part of the package, as is a new-look instrument cluster and chestnut wood trim.

The V6 petrol model in the CLS 350 CGI is an excellent unit!

Goldie keen to step it up on big stage

JAVELIN star Goldie Sayers has vowed to right the wrongs of last summer as she attempts to gatecrash the world's elite at the Beijing Olympics.

Sayers – the British No 1 for the last five years – ended an encouraging 2007, which included a new national record of 65.05m, with a woeful showing at the World Championships in Osaka.

The 25-year-old athlete, who has previously lived in Newmarket, suffered a back injury in the build-up to Osaka, which prevented her from replicating her performance in Japan, and she failed to even qualify for the final after a below-par effort of 57.69 metres.

But the Belgrave Harrier, who also represented Team GB at the Athens Olympics, insists she has learned her lessons and 2008 could be the year she finally hits the big time.

"I'm definitely going to listen to my body this year, because I overdid it a bit and that cost me," Sayers said.

"Once I'd got the 65m mark, I thought I could get a lot more and started throwing when I was tired, which led to a stress fracture in my back.

"I was playing catch-up all last season and was just absolutely knackered by the time I got to Japan.

"It was very unfortunate, but you learn more from making mistakes and hopefully that'll be the case this year.

"I was absolutely devastated with what happened at the World Champs, but I'll get over that and look ahead."

Medals at Olympic, World, Commonwealth and European Championships have all eluded Sayers over the past five years, despite dominating the field domestically.

But, under the guidance of coach Mark Roberson, Sayers is adamant she has the ability to end that drought in the Far East later this year.

"I don't want to feel the same way I did after Osaka when I come home from Beijing, because that was gutting," she added.

"My training has been going very well and I think I'm good enough to challenge."

■ GOLDIE SAYERS . . . "I'm definitely going to listen to my body this year, because I overdid it a bit, and it cost me."

Tigers set for Panthers challenge

THE PREMIER League season is finally here for Mildenhall Fen Tigers who begin their third year in the second tier of racing with a daunting trip to Elite League outfit Peterborough tonight (Thursday).

The Panthers, who were Elite champions just two years ago, finished 19 places above their Suffolk rivals last season and are captained by world No 5 Hans Andersen, showing the gulf in this David and Goliath inter-league challenge.

Both teams have made no hiding of the fact that they will use the clash as pre-season practice.

"Peterborough asked us if we were interested in a challenge and because we have limited use of our stadium and practice sessions, it was a good opportunity to accept," said Tigers team boss Laurence Rogers.

"I've noticed a few clubs who are doing inter-league challenges have brought in other riders, but I can't see the sense in that, I'd rather give our seven riders as much track time as possible."

Panthers team manager Trevor Swales, a former Mildenhall chairman, said: "I expect them to give our lower order boys some good competition and hopefully some confidence with a win, but Mildenhall won the Spring Gold Cup here back in 1992 and I am taking nothing for granted."

Mildenhall will be without their Kiwi No 2 Grant Tregoning for at least March due to new regulations that requires miometric testing to obtain his visa.

Shane Colvin, who had brief spells at Mildenhall in 1999 and 2000, has joined as temporary interim cover but is not available in time for tonight.

MINI RUGBY

Rampant Stafford's display not enough

Newmarket 28 West Norfolk 42

UNDER-12

JOE Stafford scored two tries and had a hand in another as Newmarket almost ended West Norfolk's season-long unbeaten record.

Newmarket conceded three early tries before man-of-the-match Stafford's tackle knocked the ball loose for Lewis Heap to gather and score. Stafford then crossed for his side's next touchdowns before Daniel Bristow drove over, and Stafford completed the scoring with an unstoppable run to the line from 30 metres out.

Newmarket 19 West Norfolk 22

UNDER-14

AFTER defending for much of the opening half, Jack Moffat's long-range try shortly before half time came as a welcome boost for Newmarket.

But, after West Norfolk had initially added two more tries after the break, Newmarket forced their way back into the game when Moffat went over for his second, and then Jack Cronin added his team's third try.

Newmarket 10 Sudbury 30

UNDER-NINE

THE fast-running Drew Wiley capitalised on good work at the breakdowns from Michael Le and Harry Channels to touch down twice in a match where the scoreline flattered the visitors.

Newmarket 40 Sudbury 0

UNDER-NINE

IN A complete turnaround from the first match, Newmarket blew the opposition away by running in eight unanswered tries.

James Judd and Michael Le ran in two each while Jack Nicholas, Joseph Grigis, Drew Wiley and Bradley Goss also crossed the paint.

Newmarket 12 Sudbury 14

UNDER-11

TRIES from Michael Bartram and Jack Barker either side of half time put Newmarket in the box seat after they had conceded an early try. But a late lapse saw Sudbury sneak victory with a touchdown in the final few minutes.

Newmarket 35 Sudbury 0

UNDER-11

JACK Morris and Ben Bowers led a sterling defensive display as Newmarket held their opposition to nil while crossing for five well-taken tries.

Jack Barker, Phillips and Bob Challinor were among the scorers for Newmarket.

ATHLETICS

Holley goes the distance with success

PAUL Holley showed his ability across across two distances to produce fantastic results over the past two weekends.

Fresh from competing in the elite men's field last week at the ASICS Reading Half Marathon, where he finished second in the M40 class in a time of 1hr 14min 31sec, Holley dropped down in distance to compete in the EAS Castle Coombe 10k on Sunday where he crossed the finish line first in 33min 59sec.

And some members of his Newmarket Joggers' London Marathon team, who all completed the Wymondham 20-mile race last weekend in under three hours, ran in the Adidas Silverstone Half Marathon on Sunday.

Finishing first for the team was Simon Waterhouse in 1:43:02, followed closely behind by Camilla Milbank in 1:44:36, who has stepped up in distance this season and has adjusted to longer distance with relative ease.

Competing in her first ever half marathon, Gemma Dawson finished strongly in 1:50:36.

Farr was followed by Jack Goodridge in 3:53;34 and Simon Palmer in 5:40:03.

FOOTBALL

■ NO HOLDING BACK . . . Haverhill's Adam Ben-Saud and Mildenhall's Lewis Baillie clash. Picture: Alex Weatherill SPO471806

Matt's finish is just right

Mildenhall 1 Haverhill 0

RIDGEONS LEAGUE, PREMIER DIVISION

MATT Robinson's early goal was enough to give Mildenhall a slender victory over Haverhill on Saturday.

The hosts began in sprightly fashion and went close through Stephen Spriggs, before Robinson got on the end of Darren Coe's pass to fire his side ahead.

Nick Impey drew a point-blank save from Ben Nower, and Russell Bull went close as Haverhill piled on the pressure. Nower's brilliant reflexes thwarted Adam Ben-Saud after the break and Marc Abbott twice missed the target from distance as Mildenhall clung on to claim maximum points.

■ Tony Lyes and Dave Pinkowski's charges found the target twice in the second half to extend their recent unbeaten run to five league matches with a 2-0 victory over Harwich on Tuesday night.

Neither side were able to break the other one down in the first 45 minutes, but the hosts got their noses in front through Owen Paynter on the hour.

Ricky Campbell then put the icing on the cake for Hall, who made the three points safe with their second strike five minutes from time.

Newmarket 2 King's Lynn res 3

RIDGEONS LEAGUE, PREMIER DIVISION

KARL Johnson is planning for life in the First Division after admitting Newmarket are almost certain to be relegated following an eighth defeat in nine league games.

The Jockeys are 12 points adrift of safety and the manager believes avoiding the drop is now beyond his side.

Johnson said: "Realistically, we've got to look towards next season and start thinking about doing well in the First Division.

"We were worth a point on Saturday, but I'm getting sick of saying that. They scored the winner with nine minutes to go, which sums up our season."

Mark Angel put the hosts ahead in the first minute and Alex Watson's penalty made it 2-2 after the visitors had bagged two quick goals, before the travelling outfit claimed a late winner.

NEW ASTLEY CLUB REMEMBERS LATE FOUNDER

Schupp stretches winning streak

AARON Schupp maintained his unbeaten record with a hard-fought victory in front of a home crowd at New Astley ABC's annual show.

The Newmarket club paid tribute to late founder and former coach John Humphrey, who died last November after a long battle with cancer, by sounding 10 bells before the boxing started.

Schupp claimed his fourth straight success on a majority decision over Colchester ABC's Dominic McGurl, who came out aggressively and had the edge in the opening stages, but Schupp got stronger as the bout went on and dominated the final round to take the win.

Steven Smith shook off illness and nerves to see off McGurl's club-mate Sam Krarup on a unanimous verdict. Smith's left jab was an important weapon early on before gaining the confidence to throw combinations that had Krarup on the back foot.

Alfie Smith also picked up a confidence-boosting majority decision success over lanky Sudbury ABC battler Dewy Taylor. The home fighter struggled to come to shoulder height against Taylor, but swarmed all over him by getting in close, and deserved to win unanimously.

Jamie Corner was also on the right side of a majority decision against Chadwell & Corringham ABC's tough Kieran Redding.

Matt Jack warmed up for his Senior ABA Championships bid with defeat on a split verdict against the experienced Elvis Dube from Derby's Merlin ABC.

Gary Frostick suffered a split decision loss to Welwyn Garden City ABC's Danny Grimes in a scrappy encounter after being given a standing count in the final round, while Pender Buckley lost on a split verdict to Sudbury's Jack Lavell in an evenly-matched show opener. Debutant Peter

■ CONNECT...New Astley's Steven Smith clips Steven Krarup.

Croucher found Joe Wiltshire of London's Five Star ABC just too strong, while Michael Cooper could not get the better of Wiltshire's club-mate Brad Wheeler.

Jesse Brown and Mark Samuel both put up good fights, but respectively suffered unanimous-verdict defeats to Frankie Hobdon and Tom Cox, both from Welwyn Garden City.
